

HH Audio promotes Emma Thompson

HH Audio, part of the Headstock Group, announces the promotion of Emma Thompson to the position of Marketing Manager with responsibility for developing and executing HH Audio brand campaigns globally. Headstock Group CEO James Laney comments: “Having started at Headstock Group on our marketing apprenticeship programme in 2022, Emma quickly demonstrated an aptitude for adding value to the business, bringing a critical eye to brand aesthetics and a dynamic approach to content creation. Having been promoted to a Marketing Associate role twelve months ago, Emma has been very productive working across multiple campaigns and different brands within the group.”

Emma looks forward to a busy time in her new role: “I’m excited to be taking up my new position, especially given the exciting product launches that we have planned for 2025. It’s a challenge I’m really looking forward to. I’m leading the planning for the HH Audio booth at ISE in Barcelona and look forward to meeting our customers and visitors to the show on Stand 7L150!”

www.hhaudio.com