EPOS President, Jeppe Dalberg-Larsen: “We are thrilled to launch the ADAPT 660 AMC EPOS x Aston Martin Cognizant Formula One co-branded headset. It represents the next step in our journey with Aston Martin Aramco Cognizant Formula One Team and is a milestone in bringing Grand Prix-level technology to the market. Motorsport is about so much more than speed, it’s about testing the limits of possibility through technology, innovation, and state-of-the-art engineering. We’re delighted to bring this product to fans who seek high-end audio solutions in their professional lives.”

Martin Whitmarsh, Group CEO, Aston Martin Aramco Cognizant Formula One Team: “Communication is everything in today’s world. Whether that’s competing across the world with a competitive racing team or collaborating with colleagues virtually, clear and effective communication can be the difference between success and failure. Our partnership with EPOS presents an extraordinary opportunity to deliver the team’s standards of technical collaboration to aspirational, motivated people everywhere.”

A cutting-edge tool for communicators and collaborators, the ADAPT 660 AMC is powered by EPOS AI, which uses unique machine learning algorithms to take the working experience to the next level. Key features of the headset include:

- Superb call clarity powered by EPOS AI delivers a natural auditory experience
- Four adaptive ANC microphones monitor a user’s environment and adjust noise reduction in open workspaces, on-the-go, and even when outdoors
- Dedicated Microsoft Teams function ensures an intuitive and streamlined user experience, optimizing collaborative working
- Tap and hold to activate Alexa Voice Assistant to stay on top of your day-to-day business
- Exceptional battery performance lasting 30 hours optimizes the ADAPT 660 AMC for all-day usage
