

PLASMA Coil 5-year Anniversary White Edition

Marking the five-year milestone since the debut of the PLASMA Coil - a distortion pedal co-created by Gamechanger Audio and Jack White - a limited number of White Edition pedals are now available.

The PLASMA Coil is a special edition of the PLASMA Pedal, designed in close collaboration with Jack White and Third Man Hardware.

“Gamechanger is one of the most innovative effects companies out there today. They don't shortchange a good idea; they take everything all the way. Collaborating with them has made Third Man Hardware all the better for what they bring to the table. The PLASMA Coil pedal is incredible to look at, let alone play through – it's so cool to come out with this white colorway anniversary version,” says Jack White.

Featuring a white chassis and silver plates of photosensitive, anodized aluminum, the pedal stands out from the rest of Gamechanger Audio products. Each unit is numbered, and the total batch is limited to 400 units.

Priced at 399 USD in the US, 399 EUR in the EU, and 359 GBP in the UK, the product is available for purchase via Reverb.com, Third Man Records, and Gamechanger Audio. Reverb.com and Third Man Records stores sell odd serial numbers, whereas Gamechanger Audio sells units with even serial numbers.

PLASMA Coil incorporates the renowned high-voltage discharge technology of the PLASMA Pedal. The pedal also features a unique multi-mode FX section with six types of octave-down and octave-up circuits. These octave modes are crafted specifically to drive the Plasma Tube, delivering a sound distinct from any other octave or fuzz effect.
