

Sonuscore “Moroccan Vocal Phrases”

Sonuscore, a developer of high-quality virtual instruments and sound libraries, has announced the release of “Moroccan Vocal Phrases,” an inspiring new addition to their expanding catalogue of vocal phrase libraries. This latest product brings the rich and soulful vocal traditions of Morocco to composers, producers, and sound designers, offering a unique cultural dimension to their musical creations.

Moroccan Vocal Phrases is designed to be a versatile tool for composers across various genres, including film scoring, world music, ambient, electronic, and more. Whether seeking to add a touch of exotic flair to a soundtrack or explore new cultural influences in their music, this library offers an authentic and creative solution.

Nadia Kaawad, a talented singer from Essouira, Morocco, is the creative force behind the “Moroccan Vocal Phrases” library. Renowned for her captivating performances across various traditional Moroccan music styles—including Gnawa, Andalusian, and Malhun - Kaawad’s artistry is deeply rooted in her cultural heritage. Born and raised in the picturesque coastal town of Essaouira, she honed her craft from a young age, singing in both improvisatory and traditional music groups. Her journey took a significant turn when she travelled to Yerevan, where she showcased her talent at numerous international music festivals.

Currently residing in Sao Paulo, Brazil, Kaawad continues to enchant audiences with her versatile voice and dynamic performances. She regularly graces the stages of clubs, festivals, and events across the vibrant city, bringing the soul of Moroccan music to new and diverse audiences.

Key Features:

- Authentic Moroccan Vocals: The library includes over 200 vocal phrases, each performed by a professional Moroccan vocalist, ensuring a genuine representation of the region’s musical traditions.
