

Four Austrian Audio Products Nominated for the 38th TEC Awards

Austrian Audio, maker of innovative microphone and headphone technology for professional audio, enters the race for this year's NAMM TEC Awards with no less than four product nominations. Having had several nominations in past years with 2 finalists in 2021 and a winner in 2022 with their Hi-X65 Headphones, the five-year young company has proven to be a worthy contender with long-established brands and is well on its way to another successful year in pro audio. Austrian Audio are nominated in the categories "Microphones - Recording", "Microphones - Sound Reinforcement" and in "Headphone / Earpiece Technology".

In total, product nominations in 21 Technical Achievement and Studio Design Project categories were evaluated by industry professionals across major music, sound, and game audio associations, along with pro audio focused media groups. Finalists are those products and projects that represent superior achievements and performance in their respective fields.

Four Austrian Audio Products Nominated for the 38th TEC Awards

Tuesday, 10 January 2023 15:15

The finalists will be celebrated at The 2023 NAMM Show at the TEC Experience, a special reception to applaud the achievements of the researchers and developers, product designers, marketers, and innovators behind the innovations. The event, which is open to all NAMM Show attendees, will be held on the campus of the Anaheim Convention Center on the evening of Thursday, April 13.

www.tecawards.org

www.austrian.audio